Dear John,

Please accept my apology for this delayed response to your 3/28. I laid it aside to reread what remained of what I wrote and the Connery speech, which I'd forgotten (not that he made it but what he said), I laid some later mail aside until I could finish what I was close to finishing, it got covered over and I completely forgot about it and the other letters until I removed what was over them today.

I had forgotten that Click gave me a pen name when I refused to use one. The idea was to eliminate the Jewish name. When the editor and the two editers under him were Jewish. As well and the owner, then Moe Annenberg.

The Bata article was earlier but I've no idea of the date.

Connery and I got to be friends. His brother was the co-author of the Wagner Act.

Most of those Click articles were entered into the Congressional Record but as I now recall it, all my carbons and copies of the articles somehow disappeared from my mother's house when I was in the army.

Please do accept my apology. My memory of the past is good but I often cannot remember the morning af a days. It is not unusual when we get to my age. But by and large my memory of the distant past is ~~not~~ good.

Sincerely,

Harold
